Given the speed of a current ordinary computer, (for home or light office use), estimate the amount of time necessary to crack a DES encryption by testing all 2^{56} possible keys. Make a similar estimate for a 128-bit AES key.